Gowa was formerly a kingdom founded in Makassar region before 1300. It is one of the regencies in South Sulawesi which has various interesting cultures, and reasonable to be analyzed. Nowadays, the societies of Gowa still hold firm the culture and the heritage from the ancestor\(^1\). The society of Gowa still maintains their culture when it is almost extinct because of the globalization and modernization. One of the traditions is Accera’ Kalomboang ceremony.

Accera’ Kalomboang or Allangi ri Kalomboang is a traditional ceremony to purify the heirlooms of Gowa kingdom that are kept in Balla Lompoa museum, Gowa Regency. This Pa’rewatang Baca-Baca contains of some stanza and magic words which can invite the spirits and the ancestors to join the ritual and ceremony\(^4\).

The theory that has been applied in this research is Gadamer hermeneutic theory. The reason is, the theory analyzes the interpretation of the text when the text is separated with the author and this theory explains how to get the truth understanding of the text\(^5\). SOME RELEVANT PREVIOUS FINDINGS

Previous findings are from the thesis: Khanafí (2015) under the title Hermeneutic analysis in Amiri Baraka’s Essay The Revolutionary Theatre. Khanafí used descriptive qualitative method to explain his research. Based on his analysis, he found some reasons of Baraka’s writing in the revolutionary theatre as weapon to fight against racism and discrimination in America.

   Rofi’ah (2012) with her thesis Bid’ah versi Hasyim Asy’ari dalam kitab risalah Ahlus-sunnah wal jama’ah (Sebuah aplikasi teori hermeneutic Hans George Gadamer). Rofi’ah explained about the process of understanding text. According to this research, there are four theories. Rofi’ah stated that there are two ways to understand the Bid’ah in the Risalah Ahlus-sunnah wal jama’ah. That is macro aspect and micro aspect.

PERTINENT IDEAS

a. Definition of Hermeneutic
   Hermeneutic is the study of interpretation theory and can be either the art of interpretation, or the theory and the practice of interpretation. Traditional hermeneutic which include biblical hermeneutic refers to a study of interpretation of written text, especially texts in the areas of literature, religion, and law.

   The working of hermeneutic is to interpret the meaning and message of a text as objective as possible. The interpretation is not only about what has been written in the text or visual but also the context must be considered. In context, there are many aspects that can support to understanding a text. Either from biography of the author or the other aspects.
b. Hermeneutic Theory of Hans George Gadamer

According to Gadamer, to read and understand a text is same as making a correlation among text, the author, and the readers. These three things (author, text, and reader) must be considered by an interpreter in interpreting a text. In his book truth and method he explains his thought that ‘understands’ is fundamental attitude which signify the existence of the human. From this Gadamer’s book truth and method there are four theories and every theory has correlation each other.

c. Theory of Pre-Understanding

According to this theory, the necessity of the pre-understanding is to make an interpreter is able to interact with the content of the text. Without this pre-understanding, the interpreter will not be success to understand the text properly. Nevertheless, according to Gadamer, pre-understanding must be corrected by the interpreter itself when he consciously knows that his pre-understanding doesn’t match with the meant of the text that being interpreted.

d. Theory of Historically Affected Consciousness

According to this theory when an interpreter begins to interpret a text, the interpreter should be aware that he is at a certain position where he can be very coloring her understanding toward text which is being interpreted. Basically, in understanding a text the interpreter has to consider particular circumstances surrounding the text whether they are tradition, culture, religion, and life experiences.

e. Theory of Fusion of Horizon (Horizontverschmelzung) and The Theory of Hermeneutic Circle

In hermeneutic circle, there were two horizons; they were the horizon of knowledge or text and horizon of understanding or author. In understanding a text, beside should look for the historical side of the text, the interpreter has to understand the text and the author of the text then look for correlation between those two horizons.

f. Theory of Application

In contrast to many others, in the hermeneutical tradition, to understand a text is not just to know what it means, rather it is to grasp how it would apply today and in one’s own personal life and understanding. In religious text, also one needs to see what their relevance and application would be to one’s own life and situation. To truly understand a text is to see its application, its context, and direction of meaning.
